There is explosive growth taking place in the diagnosis and treatment modalities of cardiovascular diseases. This is creating exciting but challenging situation for clinicians working with patients with cardiovascular diseases. This conference is designed to provide you with the needed information in a manner that can be applied to clinical practice. The scope of the program is broad and will cover a wide spectrum of diseases, ranging from ischemic heart disease to cardiovascular health.

Participating faculty will share timely topics with individual faculty members. Learning methods will include didactic lectures and Q & A panel discussions. No hands-on demonstrations will be provided. Detailed syllabus materials will be provided.

Learning objectives

At the end of this conference, participants should be better able to:
• Interpret and discuss contemporary imaging and diagnostic strategies for patients with structural heart disease, including percutaneous valve replacement/repair
• Understand guidelines for optimal timing of surgical valve replacement surgery in patients with heart failure
• Recognize newer concepts in management of heart failure, including role of new targets to improve outcomes
• Review latest features of devicerelated heart rhythm disturbances
• Discuss and review the latest developments in cardiovascular health

Intended audience

This conference is intended for cardiologists, cardiovascular surgeons, fellows in training, general internists, primary practitioners and allied health personnel with an interest in cardiovascular medicine.
